Each year, Pfizer’s Summer Student Worker Program places talented college students into short-term roles at Pfizer to help meet business needs during the summer months while also providing students with valuable exposure to a corporate environment.

Through Pfizer’s Office of Contractor Management and in partnership with Atrium Staffing, the Program matches qualified student applicants to short-term positions determined by Pfizer Divisions and Business Units.

This Program is not intended as a talent conversion or internship program. The functions that Summer Student Workers perform include:

- Administrative
- IT/Technical
- Light Scientific Support
- Finance
- Clinical Research
- Manufacturing/Operations/Supply Chain Management
- Marketing
- Math/Statistical Research
- R&D/Science
- Medical or Regulatory Affairs
- Veterinary Medicine

To participate in the Program, business lines must submit their requests for a Summer Student Worker by March 31, 2012.

How to Request a Summer Student Worker
If you or your team requires support this summer, review the requisition process and then submit your request through the Program’s dedicated portal by March 31, 2012.

If You Know an Interested Qualified Student
This Program aligns all former Pfizer Family programs into one initiative that will provide short-term student work to help meet business needs during the summer months.

If you know a student who would like to apply to the Program, please direct him/her to Pfizer’s Summer Student Worker Program Job Portal. The deadline to apply is March 31, 2012. In order to be considered for the Program, all applicants must meet the 2012 eligibility requirements which can be found here.
