Continuing Education Speaker Webinar

Baltimore 2019
SOT Regular Scientific Sessions Vs. Continuing Education Courses

- Intended to present techniques, ideas, and concepts that are more established than those suitable for symposia and workshops
- CE courses developed with a timeline quite different from that for symposia and workshops, which present the results of recently obtained cutting-edge research
- The audience of a CE Course includes Students, Postdocs, Exhibitors, with a majority of attendees having backgrounds in industry and government

What to Work on Now

• Prepare a first draft/outline of your presentation due on October 5
• Goal is to familiarize other speakers to what you are speaking so that content for each presentation can be better honed
• Talks should:
  o Adhere to the overall course abstract and goals
  o Provide information in an educational format with slides that supplement the educational objectives of the course
  o Not duplicate information between speakers
The CE Speaker webpage is a valuable tool that answers F.A.Q.s, provides guidance on copyright and presentation formatting, etc.

Alternatively, three speakers prior to or after the mandatory scheduled break can reduce their presentations to roughly 30 minutes, including a brief question and answer period.
Slides

• Presentations must be in widescreen format (16x9) and use PowerPoint
• It is OK to use color in presentations • Consistent formatting across all course slides is a must o Use Calibri as your font o Bold titles for slides
  o Consistent font sizes on all slides
  o Plain white background (no logos or themes)
• Use the PowerPoint template provided on the Annual Meeting CE Speakers webpage to get started with your presentation
Recommendations for Professional and High-Impact Presentations

• Recreate tables or graphics for best results
• Use the “Drawing Tools” in PowerPoint for simple flow-charts and visual aides
• Use “Shape Outlines” to highlight key information and to differentiate graphics
• Attendee’s receive a complete digital copy of your presentation—Plan to be readable!
• Include important sources of information such as articles and book chapters in your references, even if they are not cited in your presentation
Recommendations for Professional and High-Impact Presentations

• Text is OK. Remember, this is a course book as much as it is a presentation
• No page limits or color restrictions for your course presentation
• You can recreate “the big picture” of complex graphs/tables and cite the exact source to better communicate your points and learning objectives
• Do not use extraneous graphics outside of those that contribute to learning objectives (i.e., avoid clip-art)
