II. Key Outcomes in 2022–2023:

- FS3 promoted the education and training of the next generation of Food Safety Toxicologists through the three Food Safety Specialty Awards:
  - The Frank C. Lu Early Career Scientist Award & The Frank C. Lu Graduate Student Award; The Burdock Student Award; and the Elsevier Postdoctoral Award
- These awards were made possible by contributions of the Burdock Group and the Frank C. Lu Food Safety Student Award Fund of the SOT Endowment that the Food Safety Specialty Section and Elsevier manage.
- We endorsed the 2023 Annual Meeting Information session on “Evidence-Based Methods in Toxicology: Progress in the Past Decade and Collaborative Projections for the Future” and a Symposium on “New Approach Methodologies to Evaluate Botanical Safety”.
- We conducted an FS3 Mentoring Event that provided trainees with an opportunity to meet with experts and mentors from different sectors in food safety to discuss their career paths and help the trainees understand career options in Food Safety.
- We continued enhancing communication efforts through our LinkedIn page and engaged the member audience to highlight our early training career awards, acknowledge our sponsors for their generous contributions, and promote training opportunities within Food Safety toxicology.

- E. Mentoring Activities: FS3 Mentoring event was held on Wednesday, March 22, 2023, 5 - 6 pm at Music Row 5, Omni Nashville Hotel in advance of the FS3 annual reception at the 62nd SOT Annual Meeting. This session provided trainees with an opportunity to meet with experts and mentors from different sectors in food safety to discuss their career paths and help the trainees understand career options in food safety.

IV. Feedback and Ideas:

- A. In what ways is your group fostering and maintaining an inclusive environment? Please give examples of any current practices used to support inclusion in processes such as 1) leadership selection and promotion, 2) award descriptions and selection, and 3) endorsement of proposals for the Annual Meetings.

The FS3 EC is very diverse, represented by individuals from different backgrounds (e.g., academia, industry, consulting, and startups), including both seasoned and early to mid-career toxicologists and EC members located within and outside of the USA. We make sure that everyone's voice is heard on the monthly meeting calls and have diversity in our thoughts and actions in everything we do at FS3. Similarly, FS3 membership is also very diverse from different backgrounds and we as FS3 EC are fully committed to DEI activities and initiatives put forth by SOT and by our membership. Award selection considers inclusivity as well and accounts for applicants/winners from academic institutions located within and outside of the USA.

B. What is one thing the Society should be doing that we currently do not do (or do not do effectively) that would be of importance/benefit to the members of your component group?

As we were not able to award the Food Safety SS Frank C. Lu Early Career Scientist Award, due to a lack of eligible applicants, it would be helpful if SOT could promote the availability of the awards by including notices in communications that are intended to be circulated to a wider audience or all SOT members.

We also sincerely thank the SOT SS Coordinators for their contribution and tremendous support for all of the FS3 activities. Their active and timely help is very valuable throughout the year for many different needs, especially to run the webinars.

C. What is one thing that the Society is currently doing that impacts your component group that should be changed (e.g., stopped, modified, etc.)?

None. SOT's support is highly appreciated.
